

Background information

Expert judgement will be used to estimate the following key model inputs:

- The impact of the SPOCC intervention (communication tool - see below) on the length of a GP appointment
- The change in USC (urgent suspected cancer) referral rate following the introduction of the intervention
- The change in likelihood of an immediate emergency referral from the symptoms identified through the intervention
- The change in suicide risk for a patient with anxiety and/or depression around the time of a cancer diagnosis following the intervention

We hence provide the following background information to help you answer the following questions:

- The mean length of a GP appointment reported in PSSRU (Personal Social Services Research Unit) 2024 is 10 minutes with uncertainty bounds of 9.2 and 10.5
- The average USC referral rate for a patient with anxiety and/or depression is XX%
- The average immediate emergency referral rate for a patient with anxiety and/or depression is XX%
- The average suicide risk for a patient with anxiety and/or depression is XX%

SPOCC Communication Tool:

Date _____ time _____ of appointment

Please find a brief form about your upcoming appointment.

This form is optional and is part of a research study by the University of Exeter. This form will help guide the discussion with the GP/nurse and will not affect your care in any other way. Researchers will not have access to your answers at this point. They might contact you later to ask your permission for this.

|                                                 |
|-------------------------------------------------|
| What do you want to talk to the GP/nurse about? |
|                                                 |

Here is a list of problems that you may or may not be experiencing. Not all will be relevant to you.

|                                                                                                        |                    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------|
| Please indicate if you have any of the following problems that are new or unexplained .  |                    |
|                                                                                                        | Tick if yes |
| Pain (back, bones, abdominal, chest) that won't go away?                                               |                    |
| Any unusual bleeding, for example coughing or vomiting blood or noticing blood in your urine or stool? |                    |
| Any new lumps or bumps?                                                                                |                    |
| Any changes to your skin e.g., changed moles or scabs that won't heal?                                 |                    |
| Weight/appetite loss that is unexplained?                                                              |                    |
| Change in bowel habit, for example, constipation?                                                      |                    |
| Difficulty swallowing, reflux or vomiting                                                              |                    |
| Hoarseness or a cough that won't go away                                                               |                    |
| You haven't been able to get your breath quite so easily                                               |                    |

|                                                               |
|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| Is there anything else you want to talk about/other concerns? |
|                                                               |

|                                                                                              |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Which problem is most important for you to talk about with the GP/nurse at this appointment? |
|                                                                                              |

Please give to GP/nurse at your appointment to scan/add to your record.

Please click on 'Next' to start the exercise.

Next

Note you will be able to refer to this information at any point in the exercise by clicking on the 'Background information' tab.